LEADING ROOFING EXCELLENCE

Heritage Register

Protecting our unique heritage

The UK boasts a rich architectural heritage. With listed sites dotted throughout the country, and having one of the oldest housing stocks in Europe, there are many buildings and structures which feature traditional materials and have significant historical value.

Unique buildings like these need special care when it comes to their restoration, repair and renovation. At NFRC, we ensure that their roofs get the expert attention they demand.

NFRC established and now maintains the National Heritage Roofing Contractors Register. We assess, accredit and list businesses and individuals in the UK with the knowledge, skills and experience to work on historic roofing systems, and to use localised clay tile, slate, stone and shingle materials.

How it works

The Heritage Register is open to roofers and roofing companies that can demonstrate the required skills, knowledge and training within their particular heritage roofing discipline.

Those listed must provide evidence of required skills and knowledge, plus pass a stringent onsite assessment.

The benefits

The Heritage Register is officially recognised by most of the major heritage and training organisations:

- Historic England
- Cadw Welsh Historic Monuments
- The Environment and Heritage Service for Northern Ireland
- Historic Scotland
- The National Heritage Training Group.

Their endorsement, along with our robust vetting and inspection regime, gives clients and specifiers confidence that they're hiring someone with the precise skills that heritage roofing work requires.

For roofers, being on the register represents the 'quality stamp' that clients and specifiers are looking for. And it gives them access to opportunities for heritage work, as well as specialist technical advice from NFRC experts.

How to register

You can apply to join the Heritage Register by submitting a portfolio of evidence, including:

- The scope of works being carried out.
- Specification of the work being undertaken (detailed photographs of relevant work before, during and after construction).
- Details of training/qualifications held.

The Heritage Regional Representative in your area will review your application and arrange your onsite review.

Registration is free for NFRC members
